

Introduction

The 7th Jordan International Chemical Engineering (JICHe 07) Conference will be held in Amman-Jordan during 4–6 November, 2014. This series of conferences is organized by Jordan Engineers Association (JEA) and Jordanian Universities in co-operation with the local industries. The first conference started in 1993, since then, number of participants from different countries has grown progressively.

All submitted research papers will be subjected to peer reviewing. The conference also accepts case studies presenting unit/process/plant development. All accepted papers will be published in the conference proceedings and case studies will appear in a separate volume.

Jordan is located in the center of middle east with a moderate climate and rich historical and archeological places that feature diverse touristic attractions; such as Petra, Dead Sea, Jarash and Aqaba.

Conference Themes

The conference activities will include plenary lectures, oral and poster presentations. The conference covers the following areas:

1. Energy; with focus on renewable energy and oil shale sources
2. Water, environment and green technology
3. Pharmaceutical, food and biotechnology
4. Nanotechnology and material sciences
5. Mineral extraction and processing
6. Petrochemical and polymers
7. Other topics related to chemical engineering
